

MR. AND MRS. F. H. VESPER RETURN FROM ALASKA TRIP

Mr. and Mrs. Frank H. Vesper and their granddaughter Miss Lois Naudain got back Sunday morning from an Alaskan trip which was a pleasure from start to finish with no misadventures of any sort. Apart from the Alaskan part of the tour it was the first visit they had made to Seattle and as they found there a colony of old friends from Iowa who made it their business to see that they had a good time, their stay in the northern city is a very pleasant remembrance.

They steamed north by way of the inside passage, the water like a sheet of glass most of the way. The company aboard ship was of the best class of representative Americans from the coast cities, and the social life was like that of a high class resort where a variety of entertainment is provided and conventions are sufficiently relaxed for everybody to get acquainted. She stops at the quaint Indian villages and trading posts were long enough for sightseeing and there was nothing to mar the pleasure of the scenic panorama even though occasionally the ship slipped past the shelter of the islands which make the inside passage, into open water. This part of the journey was all within United States territory, but at Skagway they left the steamer to board a train on the White Pass Railroad which took them "over the hill" to the Yukon river into British territory where they embarked again on a river steamer, for Dawson.

Mr. Vesper says the scenery along the Yukon is very suggestive of the Royal Gorge in Colorado, towering peaks, snow covered, with glaciers in the gorges that sometimes reach down to the river's brink; yet with all this snow in sight it was not cold and the overcoat Mr. Vesper took along as a precautionary measure, proved a white elephant.

The Vespers had planned to continue their journey north from Dawson to Yukon City on the Arctic circle, but the wreckage of a part of the Yukon fleet which had been caught in the ice by an unusually early winter, had cut down the service and made the running of steamers uncertain. It is a slow ride at best for the boats are able to make only about 4 miles an hour because of the swiftness of the current, the bed having a fall of two feet to the mile. Were it not for the twists and turns of the channel that retard the flow, vessels would not be able to navigate it at all. The Vespers therefore decided to cut off this last lap of their tour, Mr. Vesper being the more willing because he did not wish to see the last vestige of night disappear. At Dawson they had about 23 hours of daylight, which he thought was quite enough. That long day accounts however, for the vegetation, the excellent garden vegetables and fruit they saw grown on soil that is thawed only about a foot down, but that is kept warm constantly by a sun always on the job at this season.

This White Pass railroad with its river connections is at present the only outlet from the northern interior of that part of Alaska belonging to the United States, but a new road to Fairbanks is building and when that is completed it will be the death knell, in Mr. Vesper's opinion, to Skagway and Dawson as business points.

The return trip was made via the outside route with a stop at Sitka, the old Russian capital of Alaska and by far the most interesting town explored on their journey. No long stay would have been possible because, old as the town is, it has no hotel or other accommodation for tourists. Yet it boasts a climate warmer in winter and cooler in summer than Washington and has great resort possibilities, in the opinion of Mr. Vesper.

This outside route also took them past the great Treadwell mines now deserted with the machinery rusting to junk because the sea broke into the galleries and flooded the mine, and the ore is of too low a grade to justify the expense of engineering that would shut out the water.

At San Francisco they stopped to visit Mr. Vesper's brother who is confined to his bed by paralysis of the lower limbs but with a mind unimpaired which is cheerful and active. Like Mr. Vesper, he was for years a Western Union telegraph operator. When he became a "shut-in" he turned to new developments in applied electricity for amusement and has had installed a wireless apparatus which is connected with a telephone at his bedside. This puts him in touch in a very wonderful way with the big round world, for, by listening in he catches messages of importance from far distant places before they reach the readers of the world by the ordinary channels. He often hears conversations between Catalina and Los Angeles, five hundred miles away, and he is also interested in the calls upon the light houses that are made by the coming vessels lost in the fog. For he knows the code and by means of a chart he has drawn up can mark the location of each ship. He knew that the Vespers were aboard the Queen and when they visited him he was able to tell them just where their ship was the night before at 9 o'clock.

Another thing that he greatly enjoys is the concerts given on the roof of the Fairmont Hotel in San Francisco with special wireless receiving board to carry the music to the listeners in some of the theatres have put in similar apparatus for the same purpose, and so this stricken man can lie on his bed and hear a high class vaudeville performance without effort or cost, missing only the sight of the artists. Who knows but that some day the image will be carried as the sound now is and thus annihilate time and space.

VETERANS WILL HOLD REUNION

Veterans of the 91st division will hold a reunion in Los Angeles September 24 and 25, which will be featured by banquets, parades, campfires, excursions, speeches and elections. It is hoped that the observance of this annual reunion will serve to knit together more closely the men who formed this western division.

Many Glendale men, members of the 91st, are prominent in divisional association activities, and announce that it is probable that the reunion will bring between 15,000 and 20,000 persons to Los Angeles in September. Special railroad rates will be secured to induce ex-soldiers from more distant points to be present.

AUTOISTS BETTER CUT OUT BOOZE

Los Angeles police judges have determined to impose jail sentences on all motorists brought before them and proven guilty of driving cars while intoxicated, so prevalent has become this crime. Judge Lowe has two cases of this nature coming before him on Thursday for preliminary hearing, one a Glendale and the other a Los Angeles man. Both are under bond for their appearance.

BIG CROWD AT BAPTIST CHURCH

The Liddecoat Midnight Mission evangelistic party was greeted with a full house last night at the Baptist church. The main floor and gallery were packed to capacity. Mr. Hall of the party spoke at the young people's meeting; Mr. Hatch rendered a very pleasing violin solo, and Miss Clayton sang an uplifting solo.

At the evening church service a very pleasing program of vocal and instrumental music was rendered by the members of the party. Mr. Liddecoat, founder of the mission, spoke concerning the work started four years ago and of its growth. The scope of the work is to be enlarged and put on a stronger basis.

At the close of the service an offering was taken for the work of the mission.

RECOVERED THEIR ESSEX MACHINE

A warrant was issued Saturday evening by Judge Lowe for the arrest of H. E. Mitchell, of San Francisco, to be sent to the sheriff there. Mitchell is accused of forging ownership papers to an Essex automobile and selling the machine to Chambers & Felts, for $1000, last April.

The real owner of the auto traced the theft, and in locating the machine, secured possession.

MRS. NETH TO VISIT GIRLS OF C. C. CLUB

The Christian Circle Club girls are to have the honor and pleasure of having Mrs. Neth as their guest at the regular Tuesday evening supper and hour of Bible study. Mrs. Neth won many friends among the girls of Glendale when she had charge of the girls' work during the John Brown evangelistic meetings held here in April, and all of the girls who attended either of her teas, given at that time, will welcome this opportunity to hear her speak again. The regular 15-cent supper, which is prepared by the ladies of the various churches, will be served at 6 o'clock at the Baptist church, tomorrow night.

PENITENTIARY RIOT IN PITTSBURGH BRINGS DEATH AND INJURIES

(By International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., July 18.—Three men are dead and a score or more are seriously wounded and from 30 to 40 hurt as the result of a fire which started simultaneously with a riot in the penitentiary here this afternoon. Wild scenes of turbulence were witnessed within the prison walls. The flames, which started soon after noon, were not subdued until about 4 p. m. Volleys after volleys were fired between the guards and a number of prisoners who had managed to secure guns. The fighting continued while the flames raged and for a time it appeared that the death list might be appalling.

D. O. O. K. WINS PRIZE IN PARADE

Quite a delegation from Glendale Lodge, K. of P., visited Castle Hall in Los Angeles Saturday night and had the pleasure of seeing the float entered in the Elks' floral parade by the D. O. O. Ks, Knights of Pythias, which won first prize in its division. The emblem of the order is a tiger. For that reason the feature of its float was a floral tiger 12 to 15 feet long and 5 feet high. It was accompanied on the parade by members of the patrol teams and a party of "nomads," an auxiliary to the D. O. O. Ks.

ALL KENTUCKY FOLK PRAISE CITY OF GLENDAL

According to H. M. Doll, of the Psenner-Doll Auto Electric company, it is altogether possible that a great many folks from Louisville, Ky., may move to Glendale, for those who have been here on a visit are so impressed with the city that they will return home imbued with the California boasting spirit.

On Wednesday evening during the Elks' convention, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Doll entertained at their home, 727 South Louise street, Mr. Doll's brother, Martin Doll, and his wife, of Louisville, who came with the Elks' delegation. Other members of the Louisville party present at the Doll reunion and reception were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Imorde, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schildt and Mr. Will and Miss Lulu Imorde, business people of Louisville. Martin Doll is a wholesale produce and commission merchant, the Messrs. Imorde being in the grocery business, and Mr. Schildt being a mortician.

Among the Glendale people present who were formerly residents of Louisville were: Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Doll, Randolph Doll, Wm. M. Doll, H. M. Doll, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Frank Godard, Robert Godard, Miss Helen Godard, Miss Dorothy Godard, Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Huesman, Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Huesman, Mr. and Mrs. Rommel, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lundrager. Other guests included Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Koverman, formerly of Pittsburgh, Pa., but now of Glendale; Herman Psenner, of the Psenner-Doll company, and Miss Johnson of Los Angeles.

The evening was declared by all to have been most enjoyable, the Kentucky folks being profuse in their praises of California hospitality. The evening came to a close with the singing of "My Old Kentucky Home" by all the guests.

NIMBLE FINGERS CLUB MEETS NEXT TUESDAY

The Nimble Fingers Club will meet Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Dora Hall at 126 South Maryland. Assisting Mrs. Hall the hostess, will be Misses Irene Fuller and Audrey Hall. The evening will be spent in completing several comforts later to be auctioned off for the benefit of the Club, and other needle work.

BIBLE CLASS GIVES RECEPTION TO MEN

Home of Mrs. Eva Hutton Is
Scene of Large Gathering
Last Night of Guests

The members of the Loyal Women's Bible class of the Central Christian church, gave a reception Friday night at the home of their teacher, Mrs. Eva Hutton, 326 East Colorado street, to the Men's Bible class of the same school. Nearly 80 persons were present. There was a splendid program, preceded by a guessing contest, during which the ladies masked and toggled out in old clothes or one another's costumes, paraded before their husbands to see if identities could be established. In most instances the guessing was extremely wild.

Miss Evangeline Quackenbush opened the program with a violin solo, which was encored, as were all the numbers following, some of them more than once. Mrs. Learned then read a poem by Mrs. Hutton, in which were many clever take-offs on the names of members of the two classes. Miss Garnet Peters followed with a very clever reading; Mrs. Floyd Mercer contributed a beautiful vocal solo, and Miss Florence a piano selection. Mrs. Learned read the current issue of "The Loyal Spiel," the class paper, "published" monthly by herself and a staff of editors. The joke department edited by Mrs. J. E. Peters fairly brought down the house. A ladies' quartet, composed of Misses Floyd Mercer, R. P. Dixon, Eva Hutton and O. L. Zook, then rendered a lovely song, which was followed by an encore, a humorous hit at the husbands. Some amusing readings were given by Mrs. Calvin Whiting, and a charming duet by Misses Floyd Mercer and O. L. Zook closed the program.

Refreshments of brick ice cream, cake, home-made candy and punch, were served. After a short speech of appreciation and thanks by C. W. Bacon, teacher of the Men's class, Rev. C. A. Cole, who had come up from Long Beach to attend this meeting as well as that of his class of young married people, dismissed the gathering with a prayer.

NEW BUILDINGS FOR NEWCOMERS

William McMillan, the realty operator at 112½ South Brand reports that John A. Bolton who has been a resident of Southern California for the past thirty years, a wealthy man now living in Long Beach, has been attracted to Glendale as a good field for investment and has bought a lot on Harvard between Orange and Central with a view to its improvement with a business block in the near future. He declares Glendale has a wonderful future and talks of making his home here.

Mr. McMillan also states that Schuck Brothers, builders of Los Angeles, have recently purchased a five-acre tract on Adams and Maple Avenue which they are subdividing in the expectation of improving it with five-room bungalows.

William McDade, connected with the Fitzgerald Music Company in Los Angeles has bought a lot on Fairmont and expects to begin building a house upon it the last of the week to serve as his permanent home.

MRS. NANNO WOODS ENTERTAINS PUPILS

A very happy children's party on Friday afternoon brought to a successful close the children's summer dancing class conducted by Mrs. Nanno Woods of 122 West Milford street. Before a group of mothers and little friends, the pupils demonstrated their skill in dancing the fox-trot and the simple waltz. Then followed the Irish jig. Dramatic expression and physical grace were displayed in the Danish dance of greeting, and in a dramatic rendering of "Hark, Hark, the Dogs Do Bark" (new dramatic material being studied by Mrs. Woods at the University of California this summer). The remainder of the afternoon was spent in the cool, shady garden, where ice cream was served to pupils and guests. Twenty children accompanied by their mothers bade a regretful adieu to Mrs. Woods, all planning to resume their dancing studies when the fall class opens.

CLEVELAND, July 18.—Mrs. Catherine Eva Kaber, convicted of conspiring to slay her husband, Daniel Kaber, wealthy publisher, was slowly recovering today in her cell at the county jail from the effects of self-imposed abstinence from food since a fortnight ago and from the ordeal of the trial itself. When she is sufficiently recovered she will be taken to the woman's reformatory at Marysville, to which she was sentenced to life imprisonment.

DR. HENRY B. HARROWER CALLS ON THE PRESIDENT

Dr. Henry B. Harrower, director of the Harrower laboratory, has just returned from a hurried trip to Philadelphia and New York, having been gone just a little over two weeks. The chief reasons for Dr. Harrower's trip was the infringement of certain copyrights by a firm in Philadelphia, and we understand from the doctor that the members of this firm have seen the error of their ways, withdrawn from use all literature infringing on the copyright, and agreed to refrain from its use hereafter. If this is not done, very naturally the doctor will have a good case against them as the matter has been left in the hands of a Philadelphia attorney.

Dr. Harrower spent a day and a half in New York city attending to some important business matters and seeing his New York representative off on a steamer for France, where he will look into certain matters which may eventually develop in an interesting way for the local institution.

After a week-end spent with L. W. Sturdevant, manager of the Baltimore branch office of the Harrower laboratory, at his country home in Woodlawn, Md., several miles out of the city, Dr. Harrower went on to Washington and there, on invitation, was a visitor at the White House and reports a very cordial reception by President Harding and an interesting conversation with him. While at the White House Dr. Harrower secured a beautiful photograph of the President which he was good enough to autograph. Naturally, Dr. Harrower is very proud of this, and is going to give it a prominent place in the new laboratory building which is fast nearing completion. The doctor tells us that the picture will be framed by Mr. Bott, and he will allow it to remain several days in the window of the Glendale book store on South Brand boulevard.

Business conditions in the east are improving considerably, the doctor reports, but the weather has been terrible. While Dr. Harrower, some years ago, lived both in New York and Chicago, he has never seen such tremendously uncomfortable, humid weather as he experienced on this trip, and reports that one day in Philadelphia the temperature was 96 in the shade and the humidity 86 per cent, or nearly four times as high as it ever gets during rainy weather here in California.

On the return journey the doctor stayed several hours in Chicago and over night in Denver, visiting his two branch offices in those respective localities. He found business in an encouraging condition, and the prospects for an expected summer slump not as serious as has been imagined.

While in Washington, Dr. Harrower spent a number of hours in the interest of the establishment of an independent postoffice in Glendale, and we are informed that the doctor is preparing a statement in regard to this, which will be published shortly.

AMERICAN LEGION DELEGATES CHOSEN

The regular weekly meeting of Glendale Post American Legion was held last night at American Legion Hall on East Broadway and a large volume of business transacted. One of the main features of the meeting was the election of delegates to the State Convention to be held at Yosemite Park August 22 to 26. The following members were chosen to represent Glendale Post on that occasion: James F. McBryde; Emil O. Kiefer; W. B. Kelly; Dr. G. Kaemmerling; W. A. Lovins.

The Glendale Post has endorsed Commander Hopping of the Yolo Post as a member of the Soldiers' Welfare Board to be appointed by Governor Stephens under provisions of the Soldier Welfare legislation passed by the session of the California Legislature. Mr. Hopping is a personal friend of Dr. Swift of this city.

ORGANIZE A NEW J. O. C. CLASS

Mrs. W. W. Cookman and her class of young married ladies had a very pleasant social evening Friday night at the home of Mrs. Fae Fisher, 501 West Colorado street and organized into a J. O. C. class. The constitution and by-laws recommended by the national J. O. C. were adopted and officers elected as follows: President, Miss Sarah Hommer; first vice president Mrs. Nina Camphouse; second vice president Mrs. Fae Fisher; third vice president Mrs. Hone; secretary Miss Vera Howe; treasurer, Mrs. Dorothy Hemingway; teacher, Mrs. W. W. Cookman. About twenty were present and after the business session a very delightful social hour was enjoyed and refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

'BUD' ARMSTRONG IS IN HOSPITAL

Saturday at the Crocker hospital, "Bud" Armstrong, brother-in-law of Dr. C. L. Marlenee, underwent a successful operation which is expected to cure disabilities he has suffered as a result of service in the world war. The doctor was with him all day and said it was well he was there, as the young ex-soldier needed several men to hold him down when he was coming out from the effects of the anesthetic. He is doing nicely and in a few weeks will be again able to take charge of the soft drink and lunch counter business he established at 218 South Brand, which is now being looked after by one of his comrades.

MICHIGAN COUPLE WILL LOCATE HERE

Another bachelor has gone right, and Glendale will be benefited by his wisdom in taking unto himself a wife last Saturday afternoon. The sensible bachelor was Roy E. Diem, cousin of Mrs. C. M. L. Nelson, of 830 East Harvard street. He is a contractor and builder who came from Detroit, Mich., not long ago and has been making his home with Mrs. Nelson.

His bride, who was Miss Irene Snell of Detroit, came west with her father a few days ago and the wedding was quietly celebrated at the pro-cathedral in Los Angeles at 4 p. m., with only a few relatives and close friends of the bride and groom present as witnesses.

The young people left by auto for a honeymoon at Big Bear. On their return they will make their home for a time in Eagle Rock, but expect to buy a lot and build in Glendale, where Mr. Diem has already under construction a house on Myrtle avenue. It is quite probable that his father will also locate here.

CHICAGO ELKS VISIT GLENDAL

Three good looking Elks with a "Chicago" arm badge, visited Glendale during convention week, under convoy of Attorney I. R. Rubin. When they got a fair view of the Elks' club house they at once decided they wanted a record of its beauties to take home with them, and that it would be a fine background for a group picture. Attorney Rubin was prepared for such emergencies and at once "snapped" them, with a promise to deliver the prints in the very near future.

The guests were S. E. Davis, of Evanston, Ill.; Dr. M. J. Kelly, of Chicago, and Thomas McNulty of Michigan City. Mr. Rubin says all three of his guests are prominent in Elkdom and boosters for Chicago for national Elk headquarters.

EPWORTH LEAGUE HAS CANOE PARTY

About twenty-five members of the Epworth League of the First Methodist Church enjoyed a canoe party at Echo Park Friday evening. After a picnic lunch at 7 o'clock the balance of the evening until ten o'clock was spent in boating. The party was in charge of Misses Dorothy Pearl and Helen Ingledue, the chaperones being Mrs. and Mrs. Edwin Murphy, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Seitter and Mrs. F. L. Perry.

A SACRIFICE

The opportunity of a lifetime! You see it's this way—Zite-Lee's of 140 North Brand boulevard is to be a shop for men's goods and Walkover Shoes—and therefore the ladies wearing apparel must all go for there'll be no enough space to accommodate both departments! So—Zite-Lee's are forced to sacrifice their entire stock of ladies' wear at a reduction of 25 per cent!—Don't miss it!

Smart little parasols are made of checked gingham, flowered taffeta and chintz.

FOR A SUCCESSFUL DAY

Start the day right and it won't go wrong! If you start out each morning with a refreshing and invigorating bath you'll go to your office with a renewed energy and vitality and the problems that seemed like mountains the night before you'll make short work of! Your home should be equipped with ample facilities for clean healthful bathing for the whole family. It sets them up for the day! The bathroom should be just as well equipped as your living room or dining room—it's fully as important—for a cleansing and refreshing bath before starting the day is the most effective health insurance you might have. A clean, modern sanitary bathroom will be easy to keep clean and give you a new sense of satisfaction. Why not call Mr. Sheehy of the Glendale Plumbing Co., 134 Orange street, today and have him make an inspection of your old bathroom with a view to remodeling it—adding the latest sanitary fixtures—and make it altogether a thing of joy for the whole family—and a boon to the household forever! Mr. Sheehy, as I've told you, has installed the plumbing in several of the large institutions in both the United States and Canada, and is thoroughly conversant with conditions here. You may be sure that if Mr. Sheehy installs your plumbing he will be a lasting satisfaction for his workmanship that endures and will last a lifetime.

Colored organdie sashes are extremely effective on dotted Swiss dresses.

AN ANNOUNCEMENT!

We may all be beautiful now! Mrs. Laura Walcott of Walcott's Beauty Shop at 136 South Brand boulevard announces that her "personal improvement shop" will remain open every Tuesday evening from seven till nine p. m. for particular people who being employed during the day have not the time for a correct shampoo or manicure. Just call Mrs. Walcott at Glendale 1374-W.

VETERAN MASCOT CALLS ON BUDDIES

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 18.—A veteran of the World War came to the State, War and Navy Building today to pay a visit to his former comrades, of Seichprey and Chateau Thierry. He wore the insignia of a private of the One Hundred and Second Infantry, but he was greeted enthusiastically by officers and enlisted men alike. From generals to field clerks, they affectionately called him "Stubby," the name by which he was known throughout the Twenty-sixth Division.

Except for six weeks which he spent in the hospital as the result of a shrapnel wound in the breast and a few odd days here and there when he was "A. W. O. L.," "Stubby" was with the famous New England Division during its entire sojourn in France.

He wears three service stripes and a wound stripe, and one seldom sees a more impressive set of decorations than his. Odd as it may seem, however, "Stubby" does not wear either his wound or service chevrons on his sleeve, for despite his A. E. F. serial number, "Stubby" is not an ex-doughboy, but a handsome Boston bull terrier.

While the One Hundred and Second Infantry was encamped at Yale Field, New Haven, Conn., in 1917, a valuable-looking Boston bull wandered into camp and attached himself "for rations" to Corporal J. Robert Conroy. The dog, upon whom the name of "Stubby" was promptly bestowed, probably because of his diminutive tail, proved himself an affectionate friend and a valiant enemy, and he soon became a warm favorite with the regiment.

Smuggled Overseas
When the Twenty-sixth Division was ordered overseas a conspiracy was formed among the officers and men of the One Hundred and Second Infantry, and, after apparently insurmountable obstacles had been removed, the mascot was smuggled on board the Minnesotan. Arrived in France, the fame and popularity of "Stubby" grew, and when the division went to the front there was scarcely a man in it who did not know the little brindle mascot and love him.

"Stubby" didn't like the big guns. With ears more sensitive than those of men, he appeared to suffer actual physical pain during a bombardment. Nevertheless, he went along, sharing in the pot-luck with the boys and sleeping in

ORANGE PEEL BREAD

1 cup scalded milk, 3 tablespoons molasses, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 yeast cake, 1-3 cup lukewarm water, 1-2 cups bread flour, 1-2 cups graham flour, 1/2 cup candied orange peel, 1/2 cup pecan nut meats. Mix milk, molasses and salt; when lukewarm add yeast cake dissolved in lukewarm water, and flour; mix; then add orange peel and nuts, cut in small pieces. When thoroughly mixed, let rise until double its bulk; cut down with caseknife, and fill small buttered baking powder boxes one third full, let rise to double its bulk, and bake in a moderate oven. This mixture can be baked in muffin tins and served when hot. If baked in baking powder boxes, this Orange Peel Bread will make delicious sandwiches.

Striped glazed chintz window shades give a great deal of "tone" to a kitchen.

A WONDER!

Mr. O'Neill of the Eureka Shoe Shop at 208 1/2 East Broadway is positively a wonder when it comes to repairing shoes! Why, in his skillful hands the most forlorn and hopeless looking old shoes soon commence to sit up and take notice—and the first thing you know you have a really good pair again! You know if a thing is worth doing at all it's worth doing right—and if a shoe is worth repairing it's worth taking to the Eureka Shoe Shop for the prices are reasonable and the workmanship is excellent!

PERSONAL SERVICE

Personal service is the keynote of the Glendale Paint and Paper Co., of 119 South Brand boulevard. After all it is the attention to the smaller details which make for perfection in any business and there is never a detail too small for Mr. Hunter, the new owner of the Glendale Paint and Paper Co., to give his personal attention and supervision. What might seem to the layman the merest detail, often is an all-important matter that will either make or mar an undertaking. For instance, the whole finish of a floor may be spoiled by incorrectly applying the first wax to the hardwood. But Mr. Hunter, when selling wax for hardwood floors or the old English Waxers, to polish them, takes pleasure in explaining that the correct and most satisfactory way of applying wax is to fold cheesecloth, doubled into a bag, then insert a handful of the wax and go over the floor thoroughly. This gives an even coating, prevents large wax spots, and also avoids waste. When the wax has been on for about 20 minutes the floor should be polished with an Old English Waxer, which is easily handled, rubbing first across the grain and then with it. There are many people who would otherwise never know why their floors were not as highly polished as their neighbors and how to properly polish them. And so it is with every article sold at the Glendale Paint and Paper Co.—for personal service is their watchword! Truly, it is a joy to shop there!

DON'T WORRY

Don't worry over that spot on your dress, just call the Brand Cleaners of 217 South Brand boulevard for they are expert cleaners for particular people—and you'll be delighted with the results they give.

COMFORT!

Don't you usually feel the ill effects of a day of sewing at your machine? But you don't feel that you can afford an electric such as I described to you last week from the Jewel Electric Co. of 200 East Broadway? Well, hasn't it occurred to you that your machine might easily be converted into an electric? Impossible?—Not at all! Why, it's the simplest thing in the world—for the Jewel Electric Co. have two types of motors to attach to ordinary sewing machines! There is one which is called the Jack Rabbit—and really it's just dandy! It can be easily put on any machine and as quickly removed for it's held in place by a spring. Then what do you suppose? The pulley for driving the machine can be taken off and an electric fan substituted! Speaking of comfort! The other—the belt drive motor comes in two styles—the universal which fits any machine and the special bracket for the Singer only. Both motors may be purchased complete with the rheostat for varying the speed (there are five different degrees of speed on them, if you please!) at the Jewel Electric Co. of 200 East Broadway for only $19.75! And just think of the time and work that they'll save!

Long loose coats of taffeta are worn much this summer. Many of them have thin muslin linings, usually quite bright in color.

ROYAL PRINCESS VISITS AMERICA

(By International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—Even though but fragments of the lines and none of the slang of American vaudeville are understood, this popular form of American amusement has its appeal to royalty of far off Afghanistan. To determine this fact, the writer played host at a theatre party to the Princess Fatima, Sultana of Afghanistan, and her three sons, Sirdars Hashim, Azim and Akbar, when they visited this city recently en route to London, where the young princes are to be educated.

It was apparent from the first that the Princess and the Princes have an unusually keen sense of humor. Though she speaks no English, the Princess caught the point of many of the jokes and laughed heartily when they were idiomized in her native language—Assyrian—by her eldest son, Hashim.

Some Ford jokes were caught by the royal visitors without the necessity of translation, for these cars have penetrated Afghanistan and already the Afghans have their jokes about them.

Perhaps the greatest amusement to the royal visitors was given by an act least calculated to do so. It was an American office scene portraying a gruff American business man, his son and a petite stenographer.

When the father referred to his boy as his "wife's son" and the phrase was translated to the Princess she enjoyed a hearty laugh.

A skillful juggler act which opened the bill drew expressions of admiration for the skill of the performer.

Musical Appreciated
But, strange as it may seem, the ever youthful Trixie Friganza, beloved by American audiences and cheered to the echo, got little response from the visitors. Her rapid-fire slang was far and away over their heads, but Prince Hashim commented on her "amazing personality."

A fast-moving musical comedy of the tabloid type, featuring girls, won the admiration of the younger Princes, but the Princess had no comment to make, although she apparently enjoyed the dancing.

Musical numbers won their approval. Late American jazz songs caught their fancy, and a rendition of "My Old Kentucky Home" by two voices was termed "very good—a most haunting melody," by Prince Hashim.

A black-faced comedian who made merry of the hardships of an ocean voyage, pleased the visitors immensely. They probably had in mind their voyage across the Pacific when they were forced to travel second class to the great annoyance of the Princess. The last act on the bill, however, drew from all members of the royal party expressions of wonderment and astonishment.

It was a motorcycle act in which a lady performer rode a motorcycle with a steel globe, a man standing in the centre and dodging the hurtling machine as it sped around the steel ball.

"Marvelous nerve," said Prince Hashim, who inquired particularly as to the material from which the cage was constructed. He is a student of engineering and this part appealed to him.

It was the only act on the bill which drew the applause of the Princess and Princes.

And when it was all over the Princess said through Prince Hashim: "The Princess directs me to thank you for a most enjoyable evening."

And thus was American vaudeville introduced to Afghanistan royalty.

It took the cafes and gay night life of San Francisco to remove for the first time the veil—which customs of her country decries she must wear—from the face of Princess Fatima, Sultana of Kabul, Afghanistan. Words—mere words—the Princess said, would never express her regrets for not having visited San Francisco before she did. Not only does Princess Fatima like American meals and service, but she likes to dance to jazz music.

Princess Fatima, accompanied by her three sons, Hashim, Azim and Akbar, is en route for London, where the boys are to enter college. Sirdar Mohd Hashim Khan, the eldest, is the only member of the party who speaks English, having mastered it in his native land. "My mother not only likes your American cafes but is quite fond of your styles, and my two brothers and myself also agree with her, and immediately after our arrival here discarded our native dress for American garb," said Prince Hashim. "On our arrival we visited a fashionable restaurant, and my mother was more than fascinated by the dancing. In fact, she even participated in it and seemed not to get enough of it," he said with a smile.

America Unknown
A startling fact revealed by Prince Hashim was that in Afghanistan America or the United States is practically unheard of and the few who do know of it refer to it as "the new world." "If I were to write my friends from here they would not believe me and would think me crazy," said the Prince.

After completing their education in London the three royal sons hope to return to their native land and bring about several beneficial changes in their country. Afghanistan, according to Prince Hashim, is practically isolated because of lack of modern connections or communications with other outside countries. A network of highways, railroads and bridges would be a great advantage to the country, which is rich in fruits of all kinds and minerals, and it is the dream of the three royal brothers to educate themselves along engineering lines to be able to make these necessities a reality. Afghanistan has a population of approximately 120,000,000 persons.

To Visit Harding
Of the three largest and most valuable diamonds in the world Princess Fatima possesses the second largest. The largest—Koh-i-noor—is owned by Great Britain and valued at approximately $100,000,000. The second largest—Darya-i-Nur—is the property of Princess Fatima, who says its value passes the $50,000,000 mark. The third stone, the Koh-i-Tuhur—belongs to the Shah of Persia.

Marriage in Afghanistan is something those to be wedded have no part in. The old custom of the parents arranging the wedding still remains, the Prince says. "Marriage in our country is not a matter of love, but agreement between the parents of both principals," said Prince Hashim. "The City of Kabul is located on a plain, while practically the whole remainder of the country is very mountainous. The weather is moderate—the winters being cold and the summers very pleasant," the Prince said in speaking of climatic conditions.

The royal party is now touring the East, where they will visit the larger cities, and later go to London. Prince Hashim said he would pay his respects to President Harding before sailing for Europe.

"Robert," said the mother sternly to her offspring who had just broken a window with a baseball, "I'm going to give you a good whipping—not because you broke the window, but because you broke your promise to me that you would stop playing ball near the house."

"Aw, ma," whimpered the boy, "can't you do it for breakin' the window? Dad'll have to lick somebody for that."

SOCIAL CLUB WILL GIVE LUNCHEON

The Eastern Star Social Club will hold a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Norman Ball, 516 North Central avenue, on Wednesday at 12:30 o'clock, at which all members of the club are urged to be present. A special invitation is issued, at the same time, to visitors in Glendale who may be members of the Eastern Star elsewhere. Assisting officers in charge of the luncheon are Mrs. Edward Kritchmer, Mrs. M. B. Dewar and Mrs. Thomas Watson. Those intending to be present at the luncheon are asked to notify Mrs. Ball on or before Tuesday. Her telephone number is 1299-IV.

MASCULINE MODESTY NEEDING PROTECTION, WRITER SUGGESTS CHAPERONS

(By ALMA WHITAKER)

When the Literary Digest devotes two issues mainly to feminine clothes and manners, this is obviously a vital national question. It appears that pretty nearly every newspaper, magazine, college professor and clergyman holds pronounced views on the subject and the majority of 'em are against us. What our styles are doing to the morality of the country is simply appalling. The men positively cannot be expected to maintain any sort of standards of self-control so long as they can gaze upon ten inches of female leg, six inches of female chest and twelve inches of female arm.

But it is patent that we women are enjoying our sartorial emancipation. Even for the sake of masculine decorum, we can't find it in our hearts to go back to three petticoats and lengthy flapping skirts, to tight bodices and chokey necks. Even our nicest Mrs. Grundys of unimpeachable character are allowing themselves quite a comfortable latitude and feel that one meager petticoat and an extra inch on the fashions fills the bill. They are all showing SOME leg and SOME neck, with a marked leaning towards georgette crepe in sleeves.

So obviously gallant masculinity, no matter what its moral trials, would not wish to victimize the whole sex for the sake of their doubtful salvation. They, being the stronger and nobler sex, can surely be relied upon to heroically meet the embarrassing conditions with that resourcefulness for which they have ever been famous.

For instance, they met the sensitive palpitations of the shy and timid horse with blinkers. Why not blinkers and blue goggles for men? What the eye doth not see the heart doth not grieve. Nobody dreamt of eliminating and confining all the other traffic on the streets just because horses were oversusceptible. Certainly not. It was the susceptible horse that carried its own remedy. And a pretty good remedy, too.

Or why not a new and evidently much needed vogue of chaperons for men? If we are to believe the old timers, chaperons were most effective in the protection of artless femininity in the days when the male of the species was the wicked lure and all the modesty was centered in the woman.

In those dark and dreadful days when men were the baneful menace no nice girl dared to go out on the street; did they muzzle and shackle the men?

They did not. It was accepted as man's natural right to be a menace, and the enemy was defeated with proper guards. Masculinity itself undertook the protection of its own woman-kind—and incidentally gained quite a little eclat out of the attitude.

Very well then. The obvious remedy for the present menace to masculine modesty and susceptibility is the assumption of protective duties to women. No man should be allowed to saunter forth alone without a woman escort who knowing the naughty instincts of her sex, will prove highly capable. Or, in any case, when female escorts are unavailable, men should walk around in pairs, properly blinkered, and accept the responsibility of each other's good conduct just as nice girls used to do. Not so long ago, smart restaurants insisted upon women having male escorts and certainly no nice girl ever went to a ball unaccompanied, her partners dutifully returning her to her chaperon after each dance. It worked very well on the whole and there is no reason to believe that similar protection would not be adequate for those innocent, susceptible young men. The ladies might find the chaperonage a little irksome at first; but since their political and social emancipation, they have never shirked any necessary duties for the uplift and salvation of man. Excepting perhaps that of retaining a monopoly of all the modesty.

For a good many years now legislatures have been passing measures for the protection of women against their protectors. But they invariably took the form of sumptuary laws against the protected. Now, therefore, that 'the shoe is on the other foot, it only seems reasonable that like measures should be instituted for the protection of the male.

One of the most immoral times in history was when the gentlemen wore knee breeches and silk stockings and the ladies wore miles of clothes. Yet no one blamed the masculine leg. Yet, if clothes are so demoralizing, whatever the men wore during those eras of compulsory female chaperonage must have been altogether too dangerously seductive. But there was never any legislation against male apparel. Our weakness for the male sex was always regarded as within ourselves, the protection had always to be against our own tender susceptibilities. They could not help being alluring, dangerous Romeo's, so the only remedy was to provide us with proper guards. And quite right, too.

But now we are assured the case is reversed. Juliet is the dangerous member.

And then Mrs. Kendal threw a bombshell. "I don't like the movies," she declared. "They are rather an insult to God. No voices at all! They take away one of the greatest gifts of all. 'I don't like 'em. I don't patronize them. They have a bad atmosphere. People may say that the theatres have a bad atmosphere, but they are better than the movies."

"I don't think," she said, "that the rising generation will ever be like the great women of the past. They will do better if they go slower and are contented with what they sneer at as 'early Victorian'."

"They laugh at Queen Victoria for mourning her husband too much—the present generation cannot be accused of anything like that. Now, days they have hardly shovelled one husband underground before they are looking for another!"

But the modern woman refuses to accept Mrs. Kendal's theories. Miss Lillian Barker, who has trained thousands of girls in war and post-war work, laughed at them. "The modern girl," she asks, "What is wrong with her? I think she is a very fine thing. Leave her alone. She will come out on top."

Other well-known women confirm Miss Barker's view. "The fashions of today are very beautiful," states Miss Lillian McCarthy, famous Shakespearean actress, "and much more hygienic than those of our grandmothers."

"In Victorian days women exposed their shoulders and busts a good deal more than we do now. They pinched in their waists and wore skirts which swept up the dust of the streets."

"In these days we allow our waists to go free, and our frocks hang loosely in the Grecian style. It is healthy to expose the neck to the air."

"As to the proposals: Why should a woman faint? You might as well expect the man to do so. We are through with these antediluvian ideas. The spirit of camaraderie which exists between the man and woman of today is the finest and greatest feature of our time."

Icy Blasts to Cool Church

(By International News Service)
EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., July 18.—With the thermometer registering well above 90 degrees, Rev. Francis Geyer, of the First Methodist church here preached to a cool congregation last night. Behind him on the pulpit twelve one-hundred pound cakes of ice had been placed before a large electric fan.

Cool breezes played over the worshippers. Artificial snow was scattered through the aisles.

ace to the weak susceptibilities of Romeo? Voila, Romeo needs guardians and he ought to have them pronto. For, after all, this business of being a menace is rather attractive and it is our turn. We will gladly, individually, undertake the protection of Romeo against ourselves collectively—just as Romeo so gallantly (and inadequately) did in the eras of masculine wicked seductiveness. And when he gets into trouble we shall endeavor to be as magnanimous about it as we can, not forgetting to blame the relaxed vigilance of his chaperons, while duly punishing the sinner.

How can I make sure that don't deny us this first triumphant flush of our emancipation.

MODERN GIRL IS STRONGLY BERATED

(By International News Service)

LONDON, July 18.—Revering in a two generations' seniority, Mrs. Kendal, the celebrated actress of the 1860-1890 period, has exercised the privilege of the old to exalt the manners and morals of their youth above those of later times. She has just made a vehement attack upon the modern girl, her manners and her dress.

Instead of fainting when they receive a proposal and saying, "Ask mamma"—as they did about 1865—Mrs. Kendal complains that the girls of today say, "Right-o, old beau!"

Wherefore Mrs. Kendal asks for a return to the mid-Victorian period. She believes that women do outrageous things today; things that they would not dream of doing in Jane Austen's time. She would rather have them fainting.

And present-day clothes distress the old-time actress tremendously. The girls of today, she says, show what should be covered up and cover what might be exposed. "I cannot bear the present-day fashions."

"When I was a girl," says she, "young women were proud of showing a white neck in evening dress. But how can the girls of today show a white neck when all day long they expose their necks in low-cut dresses to the sun and wind, unprotected save by a string of pearls of more or less value?"

Movies Irreligious
And then Mrs. Kendal threw a bombshell. "I don't like the movies," she declared. "They are rather an insult to God. No voices at all! They take away one of the greatest gifts of all. 'I don't like 'em. I don't patronize them. They have a bad atmosphere. People may say that the theatres have a bad atmosphere, but they are better than the movies."

SHIP RATES HELP PACIFIC COAST

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 18.—Development of the fruit trade from the Pacific Coast through the Panama Canal to the Atlantic Coast and points in Europe, practically to the exclusion of the all-rail route, is foreshadowed in official reports from the Canal Zone.

This trade, already considerably in volume and expanding rapidly, is being developed along three different routes: Apples from Washington and Oregon are being transported through the Canal to the Atlantic Coast, Northwestern apples and California citrus fruits are moving to the United Kingdom and Europe, and Chilean fruits and vegetables are being shipped to New York.

Shipments thus far have been largely experimental, but they have demonstrated beyond all doubt that the Canal route is practicable and economical. The freight rates on experimental cargoes were in the neighborhood of seventy cents per hundred pounds, as compared with $1.66 by the all-rail route, and the percentage of decay is said to be negligible in comparison with that experienced in rail shipments.

With the feasibility of the water-route proved, fruit growers of the Northwest have joined those of California in organizations for the marketing of their products and are now said to be in a position to contract with steamship companies for cargo or part cargo lots. One steamship company is said already to have closed a contract with the fruit growers' organization for 9,500 carloads of perishable fruit to be delivered in Atlantic or Gulf ports at rates materially under those quoted by the railroads. Of this total the Washington apple growers agree to furnish 4,000 carloads. Their plan is to ship apples to Seattle and store them, to be loaded as refrigerator space is available, and to encourage this method of shipment the Seattle Port Commission has reduced its charge for the storage of apples in transit from $2 to $1.60 a ton.

Mediterranean Competition
The average time required for shipments by the latter route from Los Angeles to New York is nineteen days. Direct movement of apples from the Pacific Coast to Europe has been successfully carried out, a total of 175 carloads being shipped. As a result of these experiments a heavy demand for steamer space for this year's crop has already developed. Nine steamers are now scheduled for the Pacific Coast-European service with cold storage equipment for handling fresh fruit through the tropics, affording carrying space for about three-quarters of a million boxes. About five million boxes of fruit are expected to be available for export.

An experimental shipment of ten carloads of oranges and one hundred boxes of fancy lemons passed through the canal in March bound for London. The fruit is reported to have arrived in good order, and it is expected that a considerable volume of this trade will develop, despite the fact of the competition of Mediterranean citrus fruits in the European market.

The first shipment of fruit, from Chile to New York was made in April with successful results. The South American line, a Chilean Company, is reported to be building three large refrigerator vessels for this service. The fact that Chile, being south of the equator, has seasons exactly the reverse of those in the United States is an important factor in favor of this trade.

Child Is Phenomenal Speller
(By International News Service)
LEBANON, Mo., July 18.—Such words as Mediterranean, picillilli, deuteronomy, formaldehyde, acclamation, constitutional, dissipation, authoritatively and other similar words hold no terrors for Fern Waterman, four and one-half-year-old phenomenal speller, who lives in the Ozark Hills, near Eldridge.

Whenever the lad comes to town with his parents he soon becomes the center of interest. He frequently gives exhibitions of his spelling prowess. One of the things the youngster likes to do is to stand on the station platform and when a train stops to take water or wait while baggage is being handled, Fern spells for the passengers.

None of the jawbreakers that so frequently "stump" adults give Fern any trouble. The lad spells all of them with comparative ease.

A Librarian's Lament
She was young; she was pretty. She wore the traditional tortoiseshell campus windshield. And she had the American co-ed's blithesome assurance as she stepped up to the library window.

"Oh, look!" she said. "I've got to read some books: It's for my English VI semi-finals. Look, have you got 'The Four Horsemen with the Erysipelas,' by that Spanish Caveman? And I want a book of poetry, too. Something kind of jazzy. See?"

LAWS PROVIDE FREE RUM EACH DAY

(By International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—Some new wrinkles in government have been introduced in the Gilbert Islands, one of the far south groups in the Pacific.

And—according to members of the crew of the trading schooner Lottie Bennet, which has just arrived at this port from Tarawa, principal port of the Gilbert Islands—the new laws, rigidly enforced by native police, seem to be working well, even the Blue laws and temperance measures.

Here are some of the laws, according to the Lottie Bennet's Crew:

Each native shall have five acres for producing coconuts as his personal right. Should he have a wife he shall own seven acres and, for each child, an additional acre.

On each day except Sunday each male shall receive one goblet of rum paid for out of the public treasury.

Four shillings is the daily wage on the plantations.

There shall be no work or fishing on the Sabbath, neither are the women permitted to do the family washing.

Crews of visiting craft are not permitted to purchase liquor and, instead of receiving free coconuts, shall pay the natives one shilling apiece.

Those who reach the age of sixty years must retire. All the other inhabitants are taxed in coconuts for their upkeep.

FRENCH WOMAN IS SPORTING EDITOR

(By International News Service)

PARIS, July 18.—The distinction of being one of the first women editors of a sporting newspaper in France has fallen to Mademoiselle Berthe Bouveret who has been appointed editor in chief of Le Sportif de l'Aisne, a new sporting weekly published at Soissons. This publication is the official organ of all the sporting clubs of the Department of the Aisne.

Mademoiselle Bouveret is an enthusiastic sportswoman, only twenty-four years old, and one of the original founders of "Academia," the first sporting club for women, organized in Paris in 1915. She typifies the new type of Frenchwoman—a woman who appreciates the value of physical exercise for women as well as for men. Mlle. Bouveret has already organized sporting clubs for women at Vies-sur-Aisne, Blancourt, Crouy, Anizy-le-Chateau and Soissons.

In a leading editorial in Le Sportif de l'Aisne, Mlle Bouveret says: "In England and in America, especially, the women have found in outdoor sports a path to good health which is far more effective than all the inventions of medical science. It is time our Frenchwomen followed their example. In all France there are fifty-two sporting clubs for women with a total membership of 6000. Sports do play a part in the life of some French women, but in the life of far too few. If we wish to have a vigorous, healthy race, it is necessary that our women as well as our men indulge in outdoor sports."

GETTING DOWN TO WORK

"The world is five years in arrears in production."

"We must settle down and produce for one another."

Those two cryptic sentences are taken from a recent speech by Charles M. Schwab, a man who has unusual ability and insight in fathoming the industrial problems of the universe. His conclusions of the world situation bear weight and should receive the thoughtful consideration of every man who has not already accepted the same conclusions and who is not working to the end of greater production.

Labor has been justly criticised for working with wages as the goal. Capital may be equally criticised for working too often with profits as the goal. The goal should be greater production. If labor is to be censured for limiting the amount of work done each day by the man with a union card so, too, should capital be criticised for delaying work until labor is cheaper. Normal times, which means a fair adjustment of prices of one commodity in relation of prices to another commodity, will not be realized until the world's production is no longer five years in arrears. And production will not get under way until labor and capital cooperate and think less about wages and profits.

The present situation is one, however, which inspires optimism rather than pessimism. The very fact that there is plenty of work to do means prosperity, if only the different nations of the world will get to work. The one crying need of humanity today is stabilizing factors in our social and political affairs which will make a renewal of industrial activities possible.

THE GUIDING HAND

A gentleman, in telling of his experiences in learning to drive an automobile, said to a friend, "I am greatly indebted to the man from whom I bought my car for one thing he told me when he gave me my first lesson. 'Remember,' he said, 'that this car has no sense, and you will have to have sense for it.'"

This remark will be fully appreciated by those who have had an experience in driving an automobile. On sitting at the wheel for the first time and feeling the machine beginning to move, one realizes the responsibility under which the driver rests for seeing that it does not hit a telegraph pole or take a dive into the ditch.

Guiding our lives is very much like guiding a car. It requires good judgment and a steady head. It is no place for an intoxicated man to be at the wheel of a moving automobile. It requires all the care and wisdom of a well-balanced individual to guide this modern means of locomotion along through the crowded thoroughfares of our big cities. In like manner modern life, with its complex social obligations, and its manifold temptations and responsibilities, calls for a most watchful eye and alert ear in order to keep to the highway and avoid serious smashups. These bodies of ours have no sense. They have no power to rule themselves. They were made to obey the commands of mind and soul. Mind must hold the steering wheel.

GOOD NEWS FROM IRELAND

Announcement of an armistice in Ireland is the best news to come out of that quarter in a long, long time. That agreement was doubtless not reached before the leaders found by negotiation that they could probably find ground on which to base a permanent settlement of the Irish question.

Germany is underselling her competitors in the markets of the world. Drat her; wasn't one licking enough?

There is one good thing about the divorce evil. It relieves us of the burden of wedding anniversary presents.

GRAVE AND GAY

Mrs. Exe—Misery loves company, you know.

Mrs. Wye—Not always, my dear. I guess you never had on very tight shoes when company called and stayed three mortal hours.—Boston Transcript.

"Did the lady say anything when she backed her motor car through your plate glass window?" asked the investigating policeman.

"She certainly did," said the merchant.

"What was it?"

"She said, 'Oh, dear, I'll be late at the beauty parlor.'"

Mike had saved up a little money and when Pat came over a few years later the two brothers went into the coal business. One day Mike bought a roll-top desk and when it arrived he said to Pat, "The one desk will do for the two of us. And here are two keys, one for you, Pat, and one for me."

Pat accepted the key, but seemed to be studying the desk.

"That's all right, Mike," he said, "but where is my keyhole?"—Boston Transcript.

"How do you get along with Mr. Grumpson?"

"Well, I've been acquainted with him for some time, but I don't know yet whether he is a superficial grouch or a confirmed misanthrope."

"How do you suppose to find out?"

"I've invited him to join me in a game of golf with nothing in my locker."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Mrs. Goodsole—I am soliciting for the poor. What do you do with your cast-off clothing?

Mr. Longsuffer—I hang them up carefully and put on my pajamas. Then I resume them in the morning.—Boston Globe.

"You employ rather long words." "I'm obliged to," replied Professor Hibrow. "If my audiences succeed in getting precisely what I am talking about, they won't feel they have had their money's worth."—Washington Star.

"Can you tell me where I can lease a house?"

"No, but I know where you can buy a yacht."—Detroit Free Press.

A feminine writer says bald men make the best husbands. "It will be remembered that Sampson was meek when shorn of his locks."

"Why should a man of your wealth care for money?"

"I don't care for it," protested Dustin Stax. "It's the importance that other people attach to it that makes the individual feel it as desirable to have as much of it as possible."

When a man has a chance to kiss a pretty girl and kisses her on the forehead, she is his daughter.

It's no picnic hanging round an office this hot weather, but you don't bump into poison ivy every time you sit down.

WOMAN'S COZY CORNER

By JOSEPHINE FRANCE

Seven Ways to Vary the Luncheon Salad

On warm summer days there is nothing nicer for luncheon than a good salad, with iced tea, a little fruit, and bread and butter sandwiches. Vegetables make very attractive salads. They are not nearly so much used as they deserve to be, especially if they are fresh from your own kitchen garden. Next choice falls on the best of the market offerings. But those from cans are not to be lightly overlooked.

Green Pea and Chive Salad

Cook one pint of freshly shelled peas in fast boiling water until done, then strain and cool. Finely cut enough fresh chives to make one-half a cup. Before the peas are cool add a teaspoon of soft butter, the same amount of sugar, pepper and salt. When ready to serve, mix the chives and peas, fold in heavy mayonnaise, made without mustard, and fill white lettuce leaves with the mixture. Garnish with a radish rose in the center of each salad portion.

Carrot and Grapefruit Salad

Remove the grapefruit from the shell, then take each segment from the skin in as large pieces as possible, and set to chill. Scrape and boil two bunches of young carrots until tender, but not soft. Drain and cool the carrots, then slice them. Drain the juice from the grapefruit and mix the pulp lightly with the carrots. Fold the mixture in mayonnaise which has been thinned slightly with a little of the fruit juice. Serve on lettuce leaves.

Grated Salad

Grate four cold boiled potatoes. Add a large grated Bermuda onion. Mix one small cup of grated and drained pineapple with the other ingredients, adding a tablespoon of chopped chives. Cut up the heart of one fresh lettuce and toss all lightly in heavy French dressing, made red with paprika. Serve in lettuce leaves as soon as dressed, for the salad dries out quickly and loses its delicacy if it stands.

Hot Corn Salad

Cut enough fresh corn from the cobs to make one and one-half cups of corn. Be careful in cutting it down not to cut too closely and so get bits of the husks. Put the corn into a saucepan with a generous lump of butter and one-half cup of cream, a dessert-spoon of sugar, pepper and salt. Saute until the corn is done, then set aside. Lay a slice of toast in each dish, and on the toast place a lettuce leaf spread with mayonnaise. Fill the leaf with the corn and lay on top two slices of broiled bacon which have been dipped in the mayonnaise.

String Bean Salad

String carefully and cut in small pieces one pint of fresh, crisp beans. Wash and boil until tender but not soft. Drain and cool the beans. When cold add one-half cup of grapefruit which have been moistened with French dressing, the juice of an onion and a tablespoon of chopped chives. Add only enough mayonnaise, made with Tarragon vinegar, to moisten. Serve in cabbage or Japanese lettuce leaves.

Orange and Duck Salad

Cut up four oranges in small pieces, and be sure to cut across the grain, and remove all seeds. Then set to chill. Take the remains of a cold roast duck and cut the meat up fine. With the kitchen scissors cut up a heart of lettuce fine. Drain the orange and mix the ingredients together, dust with pepper and salt, make a dressing of oil, orange juice, a teaspoon of sugar, pepper, salt and paprika, pour over the salad, and serve in lettuce leaves.

Emergency Salad

Drain a bottle of macedoine vegetables, add a tablespoon of washed capers, fold in mayonnaise and heap of a toast round which has been wet in French dressing. Lettuce may be added.

STUDIO NEWS AND GOSSIP

THRILLING FIRE

SCENE STAGED

One of the most spectacular and thrilling fire scenes ever done for the screen was staged on Recreation Ball Park at Long Island City, when Metro officials, and workmen directed by Maxwell Karger burned down a three-story tenement house as part of the action of "A Message From Mars," the Maxwell Karger production made and released by Metro starring Bert Lytell.

The building that was burned in the fire scene at Long Island City, was part of a row of brick tenement houses specially constructed by Metro to represent a London street scene in "A Message From Mars." The set was the length of a city block and reproduced a section of the London slums—a narrow dirty street in the White-chapel district. Here was shown the sweepings of London street life crowded in miserable squalor within filthy walls of tenement houses.

It was to this human hive of misery that the fire came, driving its miserable occupants out into the snow-covered street before the fierce heat of flames and the choking clouds of smoke, and then the lurid glare of the fire showed the arrival of the London fire department and the rescue by Horace Parker, the principal character in the picture, of some helpless inmates. In the role of Horace Parker, Bert Lytell was shown leaping into the flaming tenement house and carrying out inmate after inmate in his final regeneration from the colossal selfishness which has enveloped him from the beginning.

The spectacle of the London fire engines, hose-carts and hook and ladder arriving on the scene drawn by galloping horses added a fine touch of realism to the scene, over which Metro officials and their small army of carpenters and electricians had labored. The scene was the sequel to the realistic street scene Metro recently constructed within the Eighth Coast Defense Command Armory in the Bronx, where the fire engines were seen passing on their way to the fire.

In addition to Bert Lytell, the star, the cast includes Raye Dean, Alphonzo Ethier, Maud Milton, Leonard Mudie and Gordon Ash. The picture was adapted by Arthur Zellner and Arthur Maude from Richard Ganthony's well known stage play in which Sir Charles Hawtrey starred. M. P. Staulcup designed the interior and exterior sets, and Andre Barlatier photographed the production.

Dore Davidson, the father in "Humoresque," will play a leading role in the Selig production of "The Rosary."

Will Carleton will be Betty Compson's leading man in her second Paramount star picture, "The Woman in the Case."

Jack Holt's first Paramount starring picture will be known as "Tall Timber." James A. B. Scherer, former college president, is the author.

Eddie Polo has started another Universal serial. It is titled "The Secret Four." Katherine Meyers plays opposite.

All the keen, refreshing atmosphere of real country life, together with one of the most vitally interesting stories ever presented on the screen, are found in "Down Home," the independent Irvin N. Willat production, released through W. W. Hodkinson. "Down Home" was adapted by Mr. Willat himself from the famous F. N. Westcott novel, "Dabney Dodd."

On one side a girl without money, influence or friends. On the other, unscrupulous and powerful politicians, backed by unlimited wealth. Yet the girl wins. That is the plot of "The Woman God Sent," the new Selznick special.

OF INTEREST TO MUSICIANS

When James Tubbs, the great English violin maker, died recently, his two sons vowed not to teach the art learned from their father to anyone except their sons, and there are no sons to succeed either brother.

Secrets in making violin bows have been handed down for three generations in the Tubbs family. The fact was made public at the death of James Tubbs in Wardour street, Soho square, London. The old bow maker is described as an old man with a drooping white mustache, and keen black eyes, who made violins for the greatest artists of his time.

The only living relative of Mr. Tubbs is Edward Tubbs, New York bow maker.

A reporter of the New York Evening Mail asked Mr. Tubbs what he thought was the finest type of bow ever made. Mr. Tubbs said that he thought the Tatini was perhaps the most wonderful, although he said that a great deal of attention was directed toward the long, backward bent bow made by Tourte. These bows, he said, could be distinguished by the shadow across the tip. He gave Viotti the credit for being the greatest inventor, however, for he asserted that Tourte was not original but simply followed instructions.

Mr. Tubbs reported that Brazil was not exporting any more wood which is best adapted for the making of violin bows. Snakewood is very good for the bows of bass violins, but it is too heavy for the others. The ivory tips of the bows are often made from old billiard balls, and the frogs, or finger pieces, are cut out of ebony.

Mario Curci, who made a very successful appearance in New York recently in a concert at Aeolian hall with Riccardo Stracciari, has been engaged by Bracle to sing leading roles on tour with his company. Miss Pagli was hurriedly summoned to join the company for its tour of South America, and left New York on June 7.

Margaret Messer, the prominent young soprano of Los Angeles, who has been appearing in Toronto, Can., was invited to appear before His Excellency the Duke of Devonshire and his son, the Marquis of Hartington, last week, and was greatly complimented after singing Mana-Zucca's songs, "Rachem," "Top O' the Mornin'," and "The Big Brown Bear." Miss Messer has been singing these songs throughout her entire Canadian tour.

Among the many foreign guests who have literally commandeered the Berlin music halls, it is gratifying to find a native artist, Hugo Rasch, a violinist of great talent, is meeting with universal success. He is one of the Dutch artists who have traveled continually abroad and who are instrumental in upholding the Dutch name in the musical world. Rasch possesses a really astounding repertoire, including over eighteen violin concertos, and plays with masterful technic and an artistic warmth of expression.

His last concert included the well-known Saint-Saens B minor concerto, played in a manner worthy of a pupil of Joachim and Wirth.

Before departing from the Tri-Cities the new board of directors of the national federation of music clubs selected Asheville, N. C., as the city for the 1923 biennial convention of the federation. Kansas City, which was the other bidder for the convention, seemed the most likely choice until after the personnel of the new board became known. Then it was admitted that Asheville was the probable winner.

Edward W. Redfield, the painter of snow scenes, said the other day at the Philadelphia Art Club:

"I see that in Paris the experts are proving the authenticity of dubious old masters by means of the X-ray. This is a good idea. It will do away with a lot of hoaxing."

"I heard the other day of a dealer who tried to hoax a profiteer. The dealer offered a Raphael for sale, pointing to the signature the profiteer said:

"The name don't look like Raphael. Looks more like Rachel to me."

"Yes, it is Rachel," he said. "I'll tell you the history of that. When Raphael painted that picture he was in hard luck, understand, so he put it in the wife's name."

THEATRES

Palace Grand

If you were to find a supposed burlesque house at night, reading a book, would you agree to give him $1500 to educate him and bind yourself to become his wife at the end of five years? That was the situation in "What Every Woman Knows," the new William DeMille Paramount picture, which will be displayed at the Palace Grand theater today, found herself.

This is a delightful picturization by a master producer of Sir James M. Barrie's famous stage success, in which Maude Adams starred for several seasons. The scenes of the picture are laid in Scotland and England, and in the development of the story many dramatic situations ensue. The cast is unusually capable, the leading man being Conrad Nagel; others in the support are Charles Ogle, Fred Huntly, Guy Oliver, Winter Hall, Lilian Tucker, Claire McDowell and Robert Brower.

In "Crowning Torch," the comedy which is being shown along with "What Every Woman Knows," Manager Jensen promises something just a little different from the ordinary line of film humor. Johnny Hines furnishes the laughs.

Glendale Theatre

That there is a strain of the wolf in all men is implied in "Wolves of the North," Eva Novak's screen story of the Alaskan wilds which will be shown at the Glendale theater today.

Norman Dawn, the Universal director, wrote the story and produced it in the far north. The result is considered to be one of the most daringly dramatic interpretations of human emotion ever screened.

As the story opens, the blond beauty is seen as a school teacher in a desolate Arctic outpost. Two men want her enough to marry her. One is a sensitive boy; the other a bearded brute with a bad reputation and a good heart. Just which of them gets the girl is never clear until the story rushes toward its climax.

Supporting Eva Novak in her starring role will be seen Herbert Hayes, Starke Patterson, Percy Challenger, Barbara Tennant, William Eagle-Bye, Clyde Tracy and Millie Impolito. "Wolves of the North" is said to stand out as one of the most artistically presented screen stories of the decade. Norman Dawn is a scenic photographer of note and has embellished his theme with magnificent scenery.

Tom Moore is using Will Rogers' private riding ring on his Beverly Hills, Calif., estate for equestrian scenes for his current picture, "From the Ground Up."

LEGIONNAIRES ARE GUESTS OF FRANCE

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 18.—Franklin D'Olier, former national commander of the American Legion, who will lead a pilgrimage of ex-service men to France this Summer, has opened "pilgrimage headquarters" in New York, where arrangements for the trip are being completed.

The trip is at the instance of President Millerand and the French Government, who invited the American Legion to designate a group of ex-service men and women to visit France for a tour of the erstwhile fields of conflict and for participation in a series of ceremonies in honor of the American troops. Foremost among the ceremonies will be the unveiling of the Flirey monument, in tribute to the valor of the American soldier.

Mr. D'Olier has received letters and telegrams from every State indicating that the veterans of the World War regard the forthcoming expedition with deep significance. Mr. D'Olier said:

"The veterans feel that the invitation of France and its acceptance marks the entrance of the Legion onto the stage of international affairs and will tend to knit more closely a mutual understanding among veterans not alone of France and the United States, but of all Allied countries."

The number of delegates will be limited to 250 and, according to Mr. D'Olier, will be thoroughly representative. Every State and every branch of the former fighting forces will be represented.

A fixed quota based on Legion membership has been allotted each State. It will be impossible, because of limitations, to include everyone who has wired for reservations. Selection of individuals is entirely in the hands of the State organization of the Legion.

The delegation will sail August 3 from New York on the U. S. Mail Liner George Washington. The expenses of the trip will be borne by the individuals of the party or by the Legion organization. In France the party will be guests of the French Government on a tour of the former battlefields. On this tour the Legionnaires will visit scenes of the engagements in which the Americans participated and the important towns of the battle area.

Besides participating in the unveiling of the Flirey monument, the party will lay the cornerstone of "Pont Roosevelt," the new bridge to be erected across the Marne at Chateau Thierry, named for the late Theodore Roosevelt and his son, Quentin. The latter fell in combat near Chateau Thierry.

To Burlesque Benzine Broad

The delegation will go to Blois to attend the dedication of the Joan of Arc statue, which is a gift to France from the Joan of Arc Committee of New York. Here also the party will visit the former headquarters of the reclassification board of the United States Army in France, which in army parlance was known as the "benzine board of Blooye." A burlesque of the famous benzine court will be enacted by the Legionnaires.

The veterans will go to the birthplace of Marshal Foch, in the Pyrenees, and it is expected that the eminent marshal will meet them as host in the house where he was born. At the same time an invitation to attend the national convention of the American Legion in Kansas City this Fall will be formally presented to Marshal Foch, who has already definitely announced that he would attend.

At Rheims the party will attend the presentation of the three-million-franc gift of the Carnegie Foundation to the city library there.

The trip will last about six weeks, including sailing time, and the Legionnaires expect to return to America about September 15.

O-o-o-h! H-o-o-o Hum!

Are you feeling sad and dopey.

Sort of lazy, sort of mokey.

Do you like to lie-a-bed and dream of some cool, tumbling brook.

Where the sun and shadows glisten.

Where you'd like to lie and listen.

To the voices of the forest, in your dim and sheltered nook?

Feeling like you'd like to wander.

Far from city streets and ponder.

On the uselessness of slaving till you're grumpy and oppressed?

If you are, you've got the fever.

And I'm sure a firm believer.

When a man gets feeling that way, it's time to take a rest.

EXPLORER TO PILOT IMPORTANCE OF VESSEL THROUGH UNCHARTED SEA PLANES ADMITTED

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, July 18.—New strength is coming to the American Navy from the heavens. The Navy is willing to greet its new fighting arm—the air force—with open arms.

Although the bombing tests which are now going on off the Virginia Capes, in which air craft are given fair opportunity to demonstrate their effectiveness against naval vessels, have failed to convince the men of the navy that battle fleets can be conquered from the air alone, they have succeeded in convincing naval officers that air forces can be of great aid to the navy in future warfare. There is a decided sentiment in the Atlantic Fleet in favor of increased appropriations for air forces together with increased appropriations for the development of fighting surface craft. The Navy on the seas want huge, fast aeroplane carriers in order that air forces may be depended upon as weapons of offense as well as defense in any war that may spring up in the years to come.

With the use of aircraft the Navy expects to develop successfully a new venture in naval warfare—indirect firing. The Allied fleets used indirect firing in attacks upon land defenses during the World War, but it has never been successfully used in naval battles as yet. The men of the American Navy are convinced that, with the aid of aircraft, they can develop an accuracy in indirect fire which will be deadly to the enemy.

Indirect firing is nothing more than shooting at an unseen target. The target being found miles and miles away by the aeroplanes, its location and range being reported by aeroplane, and the fire directed by mathematical precision from a battleship within range, but out of sight of the enemy. Indirect firing can be accomplished at a range of from 20,000 yards upward, according to naval officers.

The armies have used indirect fire in the World War with success. The navies have used to develop indirect fire on moving enemies at sea. It can be done, they are certain.

The old battleship Iowa, under radio control, is soon to be a target for the big guns of the big fleet, and while plans have not been published, it is generally whispered about the fleet that the Iowa will be subjected to an attack by indirect fire. If the naval gunners are able to score direct hits upon this maneuvering craft, which is out of sight, then it is fairly certain that the future naval battles will be fought on the high seas when then opposing fleets are still out of sight of each other, and only the aerial spot-terers will be visible.

PLANS OF PROPOSED SEWERAGE SYSTEM FOR THIS CITY APPROVED

Plans for the proposed sewerage system to be installed in the business section of the city have been approved by R. F. Goudéy, assistant engineer of the state board of health, who, in conferring with City Manager Thos. W. Watson on Saturday, commended the project, stating that the installation of a sewerage system was a most commendable measure from a sanitary viewpoint. He pointed out at the same time that this is a step in the proper direction since, in view of the rapid growth of the city, it will soon be imperative that a complete sewerage system be installed throughout Glendale.

"Every effort will now be made," said City Manager Watson, "to get work under way to construct sewers and sink septic tanks as soon as possible. Mr. Goudéy, aside from suggesting a few minor changes in the plans, approves them as they stand. Ralph Hilscher, director of the state board of health, has reviewed our sewerage project as well as Mr. Goudéy, and pronounces it entirely satisfactory. I am hoping to see the work completed within six months."

In addition to looking over sewerage plans adaptable to the business section of the city, Mr. Goudéy made a trip of inspection up into Verdugo canyon, where it is proposed that a sewerage system be installed to assure the purity of the water supply Glendale derives from that district. Much of the water used for domestic consumption coming from this area is surface water and hence highly liable to contamination.

It is proposed that the activated sludge process be used in treating sewage and surface drainings in the Verdugo canyon. The sludge process is a simple and inexpensive means of effecting sanitation that formerly required the installation of costly and elaborate equipment. The activated sludge process of sewage equipment was instituted in Folsom, Calif., under the direction of Mr. Hilscher, who suggests that the city engineer inspect the sanitary works there before definite plans are outlined for the canyon.

Along with the sanitary project, which it is planned to install in Verdugo canyon, Mr. Watson points out that city officials are hopeful that some scheme may be worked out

New York Had Snow-Bound Summer in 1816

(By International News Service) NAPLES, N. Y., July 15.—Perhaps if the citizens of today had been on earth in the year 1816, especially in the summer of that period, he would not be peeved so easily over a sudden rise in the temperature. It has been revealed in a diary which was handed down from an earlier generation to John P. Coons, who recently died here, that the summer of 1816 was one of "ice and desolation."

In June of this year, reads the diary, ice a half inch thick formed on the streams in Ontario County, and snow to a depth of three inches were recorded. The crops inches were recorded. The crops heavy winter clothing. In the home grates and ye old iron stoves brightly burned the one, two and three feet cut oak and hickory logs to keep the cold out. There was much suffering. So severe was the frost that the efforts of farmers to raise crops were futile. The remaining "left over" from the 1815 corn crops brought $5 a bushel. Breadstuffs were prohibitive in price.

The "cold and icy" weather continued, more or less, until September of 1816, says the diary, which also makes known that the people "imagined that the heat of the sun had become exhausted."

whereby it will be possible to dispose of garbage in a practical way.

Before leaving the city, R. F. Goudéy stated that the state board of health would cooperate in every way possible with Glendale in assisting the city to carry out sanitary projects.

JUDGE LOWE WAS WRONGLY QUOTED

Through the dropping of the prefix "im," Judge Lowe was quoted as saying just the opposite to what he really did say.

In the article commenting on Mayor Crayer's veto of the speedometer ordinance, what the Judge said was this: "My experience has been that a speedometer does not act as a check on a driver's desire to travel fast; yet it is utterly impossible for the motorist to determine whether or not he is exceeding the speed limit without reference to a speedometer."

CITY BUDGET WILL BE READY SOON FOR INSPECTION OF PUBLIC

The city budget, which is at present open for public inspection, will be returned to the city council at an early date so that its various details and provisions may be debated and amended, if alterations are deemed necessary, explained Thomas W. Watson, city manager, who on Saturday, resting temporarily from the labor of handling hundreds of figures and reports in compiling the new audit system budget, discussed its future and the process it will be required to pass through before the finances to cover its various expenditures may be available.

The budget will finally be accepted by the city council by resolution after alterations, if there are to be any, have been effected, pointed out Mr. Watson. On the next meeting following this, copies of the budget as accepted will be filed with the city controller, city manager and the city clerk.

As soon as the county has completed its assessment work the city council will secure the figures applicable to Glendale's property valuation and the rate of tax necessary to raise the expendable amounts provided for in the budget will be fixed, and passed upon. This rate will then be turned over to the county tax office and added with the balance of county tax rates to determine the final local tax rate.

The city of Glendale draws its money, which is equal to the amount called for in the budget, from the county tax treasury. It is probable that the local tax rate will be determined at an early date in August.

OBITUARY

WILLIAM J. LACEY

In spite of a brave struggle against disease, death overtook William J. Lacey last Thursday in the Mokelumne hills, near Stockton, where he had been camping for a few weeks in company with his wife and father-in-law, A. C. Robinson. He had been frail for years but once before such an outing had restored him to comparative health and he had hoped to realize the same benefits this time, but it was not to be. Sunday his illness took a turn for the worse and he never rallied.

He was 47 years of age, a native of Indianapolis, Ind., and had lived in Glendale for the past fifteen years, residing at 110 East Chestnut street, where he owned a home. A printer by trade, he was a fine workman and much respected by his fellows in the craft, as well as by a large circle of other friends. He will be much missed in the composing room of the Glendale Press, where he had been employed.

Besides his widow he leaves a brother, George Lacey of Los Angeles, and a sister, Mrs. Lucy De Witt, who lives in Colorado. Funeral services were held this afternoon at 2 p. m. at the Jewel City undertaking parlors, with interment at Forest Lawn memorial park.

DAVID PITTS TAGGERT

The death of little David Pitts Taggert, who was taken sick Saturday noon and died Sunday at the home of his mother, Mrs. Winifred Taggert, and his grandmother, Mrs. Pitts, at 525 North Louise street, has brought sorrow to many hearts in Glendale. Popular among his schoolmates and the friends of his mother, who is the widow of Clarence M. Taggert, he will be much missed.

He is survived by an older brother, Thomas. Funeral services will be held in the parlors of the Jewel City undertaking company at 2 p. m., and interment will take place in Inglewood cemetery.

CLINTON WALLACE ANDREWS

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Andrews will sympathize with them in the great bereavement they have suffered in the death of their infant son, Clinton Wallace Andrews, who passed away Sunday morning at their home at 222 South Glendale avenue. Funeral services were held in the parlors of the Jewel City undertaking company at 1 o'clock, with interment in Forest Lawn memorial park.

THE WOODS' SCHOOL of Dancing, Piano and Elocution will be closed during the month of August. In September classes will be resumed as follows: Adults' ballroom dancing, women's physical culture, children's ballroom dancing, children's fancy dancing and private lessons in dancing, physical culture, piano and elocution. Phone Mrs. Nanno Woods, Glendale 394.—Advertisement.

PERSONAL MENTION

A. A. Barton and family, of 330 North Howard street, have returned from a two weeks' outing at Ramona.

Miss Alta Lovell of 505 North Maryland avenue has returned from a short visit with her sister, Mrs. L. W. Havens of Los Angeles.

One of the newcomers is Julius Nelson, a contractor from Stockton, Calif., who has established his home at 205 1/2 West Hawthorne.

William Sauter's new home at 243 North Isabel street is completed and he moved his family there from 135 North Howard last week.

Mrs. Pierson Hanning and son Preston, of 235 North Orange street, returned home Friday from Catalina, where they had spent two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Bennett, who recently came to Glendale from Coronado, are now at home to their friends at 719 North Maryland avenue.

Marvin McHale and family have moved from 717 East Windsor road to 1425 East California avenue and A. G. Miner and wife from 342 Ivy to 119 East Palmer.

Miss Grace Coffey of 505 North Maryland avenue returned last night from Los Angeles, where she has been for the past week as the guest of her aunt, Mrs. L. W. Havens.

L. W. Massen and family are now located at 373 West Wilson avenue; C. A. Baldwin at 414 West Park; B. F. Park at 309 West Doran, and Mrs. E. Curry at 720 North Isabel.

Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Lovell and children, of 114 West Laurel street, were dinner guests yesterday of Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Havens, of Los Angeles. Mrs. Havens is a sister of Mr. Lovell.

F. J. Formanack, the tall North Dakotan, has moved from 228 North Cedar street, where he lived for several years, to 214 South Kenwood, where he has just completed a nice new home.

Harry T. Shadell and family, who recently moved to 478 West Colorado street, temporarily established themselves last Friday in the new home just completed at 240 South Glendale avenue.

Floyd Mercer and wife went to Asilomar on Saturday to attend the summer school of missions there. Ruth, their daughter, went with them, but stopped off at Bakersfield to visit relatives until her parents are ready to return.

George H. Peterson of South Maryland avenue left Saturday for Albany, N. Y., where he will spend some time with friends and relatives. Mrs. Peterson has been away for the past two months and will accompany him home on his return.

Miss Murray Longley and Miss Madeline Love were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Wilson, of this city, who are making their home for the summer at Santa Monica. They report the water excellent and the swimming unequalled.

Rev. A. C. Smith of Los Angeles, who preached at the Central Christian church yesterday morning and evening, driving out from home, was accompanied on both occasions by his wife, her mother, Mrs. Cluff, and a friend, Mrs. Whiteside.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Braly of 505 North Brand boulevard had as their guests yesterday, Dr. and Mrs. Herman Janss, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Braly and son, from Los Angeles, and Mrs. Loid, of Ventura, who was a week-end guest of Mr. and Mrs. Braly.

The board of directors of the chamber of commerce will hold their regular weekly meeting at the offices of the chamber tomorrow at 12:30. It

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur Turns Gray, Faded Hair Dark and Glossy

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and luster to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients, at very little cost. Everybody uses this preparation now, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

is probable that a delegation from the chamber of commerce will visit Tujunga on August 16, at the invitation of the chamber there.

Baker Ford rental agency office at the corner of Louise and Broadway was robbed Saturday night during the temporary absence of the owner, $67 in cash being taken.

L. H. Kimmert, driving south on San Fernando road yesterday, collided at Los Feliz road with Chas. L. Jay, of 520 Burchett street. The latter's car had the running board, fender and door on one side of the car smashed, and Kimmert's front bumper, lights and fenders suffered considerable damage, but no one was hurt.

Mrs. Julius D. Noble, president of the Los Angeles federation, tenth district, California Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher associations, and Mrs. Minnie Baker, of Los Angeles, were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hull of 328 West Colorado street, this city. Mrs. Noble is an old-time friend of Mrs. Hull.

REV. A. C. SMITHER FILLS LOCAL PULPIT

In the absence of Rev. C. A. Cole, who is at Long Beach taking his vacation, the pulpit at the Central Christian church was filled yesterday by Rev. A. C. Smith, who was for 21 years the pastor of the First church, of Los Angeles, and for the succeeding six years manager of the Christian board of publication in St. Louis.

Rev. Smith is a forcible, magnetic speaker and his messages, one from the new testament and the other from the old, were listened to with rapt attention.

The morning sermon was from the text: "Know ye not that I must be about my Father's business?" The speaker briefly told the story of this first recorded utterance of Jesus, which was in response to his mother's reproachful words after she and Joseph had searched for him for three days in the caravan returning from Jerusalem to Nazareth. The Jews' conception of God, said the speaker, was that of a stern, merciless judge, they overlooking the many references in the law and the prophets to His loving kindness and readiness to forgive the repentant sinner. Jesus began at once to teach the Fatherhood of God, that He and the Father were one and that all men were brothers. While all who accept Christ are sons of God, Jesus is the only begotten and spotless one. It was He who taught His disciples and all who should come after Him, to say: "Our Father."

The evening sermon was on an incident in the life of Hezekiah, King of Judah, and one that few people know is in the Bible. It is: "I have rolled up like a weaver my life. He will cut me out of the loom." Hezekiah had been told by the prophet Isaiah, sent from God, that his days were numbered and in his lament over the sudden ending of his work, gave voice to the above words.

The speaker called attention to the old-style loom, which was so familiar to people of the middle west a generation or two ago, and pictured its work, showing the marvelous exactitude of the king's description of its work, which had changed little in all the centuries. He told of the tapestry workers of Europe, whose wonderful skill he had witnessed, and compared their work and that of the weavers of cloth, with the warp and woof of the Christian life, closing with an earnest exhortation to his hearers to so handle the loom that when the Father of all cuts them from it, they will have woven the garment of a perfect life.

Special music was contributed by Harry Marple and Mrs. Cleo Stoier. The Bible school attendance was exactly the same as at the previous Sunday, and 67 more than a year ago.

A Big Flag FREE

HONOR THE FLAG

The Glendale Daily Press struck a responsive chord in its offer of a beautiful bunting flag with each yearly subscription paid in advance. All we could procure at that time were speedily taken and many applied for the flags after the supply had been exhausted. To satisfy these demands we have ordered a new supply, and these will be given on the same terms as were the first. The Daily Press is not doing this as a money-making proposition, for the flags are quite costly and the paper is worth every cent asked for it, but we desire to do our bit toward stimulating patriotism and reverence for the flag. We hope to eventually see "Old Glory" displayed in every Glendale home, and we want to do our part toward bringing this about.

Fill out the coupon below and bring it or mail it to the office, accompanied with $5 for a year's advance subscription, and a flag will be laid away for you. If in arrears, pay to date and a year in advance to get the flag.
